Rising to Global Leadership Challenges

Brigadier General John S. Kem

Provost of U.S. Army University, and Alum of the Kellogg School of Management

September 27, 2016

7:30 PM – 9:00 PM

James L. Allen Center

Join Brigadier General John S. Kem (Kellogg '94, McCormick '95) for an evening devoted to the subject of leadership in a complex world. In this session you will learn how the United States Army meets global challenges while navigating the complexities of competing stakeholders. Discover how strategic priorities such as leadership development, education, and commitment to values and professionalism keep the all-volunteer Army the most highly-trained and capable land force in the world, and how your organization can benefit from similar practices and ideas.
